WEEK 11 QB STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR PLAYERS ON LESS THAN 80% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

KIRK COUSINS (MIN) @ SF

In his first game with the Vikings, he continued to be productive, throwing for over 200 yards and multiple touchdowns, something he's done in three of his last four games. I don't think we can assume he'll throw as much as he did in LV, which lowers his floor, and against a decent SF defense, I don't particularly like this matchup. With all the injuries to the offense, I am concerned, but with a projected over/under of 46 points, Cousins will need to score touchdowns to keep up with the SF offense.

2

BO NIX (DEN) VS LV

Coming out of the bye week, he has been inconsistent and quite underwhelming. However, he has looked better recently, throwing over 200 yards and scoring multiple touchdowns in three straight games. Facing a divisional rival that is bottom three in total yards and points allowed per game, there's top-ten upside despite the mediocre DEN offense. I am concerned that they will not need Nix to throw the ball much, making him a boom-or-bust streaming option.

3

BRYCE YOUNG (CAR) VS BAL

After another disappointing performance, I don't expect him to bounce back to his first two games of the season, when he threw three touchdowns. He has failed to throw more than 225 yards and multiple touchdowns in three of his last five games and has been a coin flip on whether he's a top-15 streaming option. Facing a BAL defense that's in the bottom ten in points allowed per game, and with a projected over/under of 44 points, Young is a last-resort streaming option to consider.

4

CAM WARD (TEN) @ DAL

I didn't think this would happen, but with Geno Smith banged up, I'm going with the QB on a bottom-ten offense in passing yards and points scored per game. Over the past two games, he has thrown for over 225 yards and two touchdowns, something he hasn't done all season. Facing a DAL defense that gave up 46 points and ranked in the bottom ten in passing yards and points allowed per game, and a projected over/under of 54 points, Ward has top-ten upside despite the risks.

FOLLOW US @AKAMAIFANTASY

WWW.AKAIMAIFANTASYFOOTBALL.COM