WEEK 12 QB STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR PLAYERS ON LESS THAN 80% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

KIRK COUSINS (MIN) VS ATL

Despite his worst performance of the season last week, I still have confidence in Cousins to bounce back against an ATL defense that's in the bottom ten in passing yards and points per game allowed. He hasn't looked great, but he has thrown multiple touchdowns in three of the prior four games. At the same time, it's projected to be a low-scoring matchup (over/under of 42). As long as Justin Jefferson and T.J. Hockenson are healthy, Cousins is a decent top-15 streaming option.

2

J.J. MCCARTHY (NYG) @ IND

Over the past two games, he has thrown a touchdown and averaged over 230 yards while also being a rushing threat, averaging over 30 yards per game. I know that isn't ideal, but with a great matchup against a bottom-ten IND defense in total yards and points allowed per game, he could potentially have his best game of the season. It's projected to be a low-scoring matchup (over/under of 41 points), so there's certainly risk, but I would definitely consider him a streaming option with upside.

JACOBY BRISSETT (BAL) @ HOU

While he hasn't been great since joining BAL, he has thrown for over 250 yards in both games. Facing a HOU defense that's bottom ten in passing yards allowed per game, he will continue throwing the ball often. He hasn't thrown multiple touchdowns since Week 5, and I'm not feeling confident, but with a projected over/under of 46 points, there could be more scoring than expected, making Brissett a boom-or-bust streaming option if you missed out on the above names.

GENO SMITH (NYJ) @ MIA

If Sam Darnold returns, I would stream him; if not, I will pivot to the QB who has thrown for over 175 yards and multiple touchdowns in three of his last five games. But he has thrown for under 175 yards and zero touchdowns in the other two. Facing an improved MIA defense, it's not the easy matchup we hoped for, but I'll take his upside over some of the other options. Despite a low over/under of 41 points and a tendency to run the ball, he's a last-resort streaming option.
