

WEEK 8 DEF STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR TEAMS ON LESS THAN 80% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

KANSAS CITY CHIEFS @ DEN

Despite last week's performance, this defense has been top three in points per game allowed. They have also forced multiple turnovers in three of their last four games. Facing a divisional rival that's bottom-ten in total yards and points per game and has a strong defense, I expect a low-scoring matchup (projected over/under of 41 points) where neither team surpasses 24 points. While Week 1 was a while ago, they dominated DEN, generating four sacks and making them one of the best options available.

NEW ENGLAND PATRIOTS @ MIA

While MIA's offense looked good last week, I expect a bit of regression from a team that's bottom-ten in total yards and points per game and failed to score 14 points in its first four games. They're facing a capable NE defense that's top-12 in total yards and points allowed per game, while generating three sacks in three straight games. They're also a top-ten defense in rushing yards allowed per game, one of this MIA offense's few strengths. I consider this defense a preferred streaming option.

CLEVELAND BROWNS @ PIT

While this defense wasn't great last week against TEN, it faces another low-scoring matchup (projected over/under of 39 points) against a divisional rival that has been solid recently, scoring at least 24 points in four straight games. However, this CLE defense is above league average in total yards and points allowed per game while generating multiple sacks and forcing a turnover in six of its last seven games. While I'm not thrilled, they are a decent enough top-15 streaming option as a last resort.

JACKSONVILLE JAGUARS VS IND

Coming out of the bye week, don't forget about this top-five defense in points allowed per game that has generated multiple sacks and turnovers in three games while holding opponents to 17 points. Facing an IND offense that's bottom-ten in total yards per game and failed to score 21 points in back-to-back games, this is one of the better matchups despite the unpredictable nature of divisional matchups. While they are riskier than some of the above options, they're still a top-15 streaming option.
